

Predictions with Streaming Observational Data

Bertrand Clarke

University of Nebraska - Lincoln

Thursday, November 20th, 2025

12:00 pm Room 3-E4-SR03 Via Roentgen 1 Milano

Abstract

The automated collection of streaming observational data has become standard and usually does not admit traditional analysis.

Frequently, it is only predictions that can be made and assessed.

We review and contrast some of the more successful and recent predictive methods for this class of data.